

MISSOURI LOSES TO HEAVY NEBRASKANS BY A 7-0 SCORE

Tiger's Plucky Work Keeps Cornhuskers From Scoring Till Last Quarter.

GO OVER AFTER LONG FORWARD PASS

Outweighed Fifteen Pounds M. U. Players Put Up Great Fight.

JUST 1 TOUCHDOWN

Ball Kept in Visitors Territory During First Half of Play.

"The boys put up a game fight—that will beat Kansas"—Prof. C. L. Brewer, coach of the Tigers.

"It was a good game. You made us fight to get even one touchdown"—"Jumbo" Stiehm, coach of the Nebraska team.

"Congratulations, Frank. The best team won"—Captain LeMire of Missouri to Captain Frank of the Cornhuskers.

"It was the best football the Tigers have played this year. It was a good game. That long forward pass made by Nebraska in the last part of the game was what killed us"—O. F. Field, coach of the Missouri freshman team.

For three quarters, forty-five minutes, the Missouri Tigers played the heavy Nebraskans to a standstill yesterday afternoon. Then by a series of charges, charges probably never equalled in smashing persistence by any team on Rollins Field, the bulky Northerners, aided by a brilliant forward pass, pushed the lighter team back and scored a touchdown. That was all. The final score was 7 to 0.

The Tigers never quit fighting. They were in every play. They fought, fought—and fought. It was only the overwhelming weight of the Nebraskans that won the single touchdown for them. With that weight even they were held time and again after they had worked the ball down to "touchdown distance." And with a touchdown against them the Tigers were still fighting. The final whistle caught them going through the Nebraska line for gains.

Nebraska has a great team. They came expecting to win by a large score. "Bobby" Lakenan expressed it well when he shouted through his megaphone after the contest:

"Well, boys, I guess they know they've been some place."

Missouri put up a game fight, everybody said so.

The game was a heart-breaker for Missouri to lose. Time and again the Tigers threw the Cornhuskers back for losses when a touchdown threatened. The only time Missouri's line failed to hold was when Towle, substituted quarter, slipped through center for the only tally.

Tiger Line Held 'Em Down.

All the Cornhuskers say that Missouri put up a sterling defense. The big Nebraska backfield was unable to gain consistently through the Tiger line, but it was the same way with Missouri. The Tiger backfield did not figure much in the game, either on offense or defense. If Missouri's offensive tactics had been as good as her defensive, the game would have been far different. Too much stress cannot be laid on the excellent work of the Tiger line. Facing a 15-pound handicap, the men repulsed the speedy Cornhuskers all through the game.

The game was a regular old fashioned buck-the-line contest. Not until late in the struggle did the teams open up and try the forward pass. Nebraska worked a clever line shift throughout, something on the order of the one Missouri had planned to use, but it was not uniformly successful, as the Tigers were accustomed to it.

The game was so evenly contested for the first three quarters that a 0 to 0 score seemed probable. The Tigers opened the game with a rush and forced Nebraska back into their own territory where they stayed the first quarter. Missouri threatened to score three times early in the game, and once a field goal seemed probable, but Shepard made a bad kick and the chance was lost. The next two quarters Missouri played such a remarkable defensive game that still a scoreless contest was promised. But the Cornhuskers came back in the last with vengeance and swept the Tigers off their feet. Missouri's line held once in the last quarter, on their own "six-inch" line, as one of the officials called it.

The struggle was out of the ordinary in that there was practically no punting on either side. Straight line bucks seemed to suit both teams, and instead of punting on the last down, an end run or a forward pass was usually tried. Shepard showed very poorly in punting in the first half but he improved in the second. Twice in the second quarter he punted out of bounds, leaving the ball in Nebraska's possession in Missouri's territory.

McWilliams a Bright Star.

McWilliams and Knobel were the best ground gainers for Missouri. McWilliams played at his top speed all the time and yet lasted the entire game. Purdy and Frank were Nebraska's stars. Frank slipped in and out among his opponents for practically all the long runs made.

Penalties were few on both sides. Only in the first quarter did Nebraska forfeit much ground, when they were too eager to mix in the play. Missouri lost only twenty-five yards by penalization.

Nebraska made a short kickoff, the ball rolling along the ground for only 20 yards. Missouri started carrying the ball through the left side of Nebraska's line for 5 and 10 yards at a time. Time was taken out for Groves, but he continued in the game.

Nebraska took the ball on a forward pass, and but lost it on a fumble. Nebraska was penalized 5 yards for off-side play and then Missouri punted across the Cornhuskers' goal line for a touchdown.

Nebraska punted from the 20-yard line, and Shepard brought the bleachers to their feet with a long run across the field for a 30-yard gain. On the next down "Dobby" Knobel duplicated Shepard's feat by carrying the ball 20 yards around left end to Nebraska's 5-yard line. The Tigers were penalized 5 yards, but on the next play a forward pass was successful.

But the Forward Pass Failed.

With the bleachers yelling for a touchdown, Missouri tried another forward pass, but it was intercepted for another touchdown. Nebraska brought the ball out to the 20-yard line and soon punted to McWilliams.

Missouri carried the ball back, through the line and around the ends, to 10-yard line. On the fourth down, Shepard missed a dropkick.

Nebraska scrimmaged from the 20-yard line, and Frank made a 20-yard run around end, but was called out of bounds for a net gain of only 10 yards. Two Nebraska end runs went clear across the field, but made no gain. The quarter ended just after Missouri had received a punt on their own 40-yard line. No score.

The Tiger punted soon after the second quarter opened. Then Nebraska carried the ball down the field on straight football, Frank making two pretty 15-yard runs. With the ball on their 5-yard line, the Tigers braced the Cornhuskers went against the line, but gained not an inch. Then Barton broke through and tackled a Nebraska runner for a 2-yard loss. Again Nebraska found a brick wall where they thought the Tiger line was. On the last down a runner broke away around left end, but Captain LeMire caught him short of the goal, Missouri taking the ball on downs.

Gave Them Another Chance.

The magnificent defense was practically wasted, for Shepard punted out of bounds of the 10-yard line, giving Nebraska the ball there. Again Missouri line held and Nebraska tried a dropkick, but missed.

The half ended with the ball on Missouri's 40-yard line. No score.

Nebraska returned the kick-off 20 yards at the beginning of the next half. Then they opened up and tried a forward pass, which failed, and a fake kick which worked for first down. Both sides were penalized.

LeMire carried the ball 15 yards through the line. Shepard punted out of bounds at Nebraska's 30-yard line.

The Cornhuskers came back strong and advanced the ball seteadily down the field to Missouri's 20-yard line. There they lost the ball on downs.

Wilson of Missouri and Mastin of Nebraska were disqualified for fighting. Gallagher replaced Wilson, but the team was weakened by the chance.

Again Missouri held for downs, this time on their 15-yard line. Missouri punted, and the quarter ended with the ball on Missouri's 30-yard line.

In the fourth quarter, Nebraska offense showed up strongly. They took the ball through the line to the Tiger's 15-yard line, but were again held Missouri kicked off, and Nebraska again carried the ball down the field. Howard made 20 yards, and Towle went to the Tigers' 5-yard line. Cornhusker supporters saw another score for their team, but Missouri was fighting in dead earnest, and took the ball six inches from the goal line. Shepard punted to mid-field.

With the score against them, the tigers played Nebraska to a standstill in the few remaining minutes. Nebraska tried a couple of unsuccessful fakes; Missouri took the ball and made good gains. The game ended just after a forward pass, McWilliams to Mills, had netted the Tigers 5 yards. The ball was in the Tigers possession in the middle of the field.

A tie football game was played between Kemper and Columbia High School at Boonville yesterday, the score being 13 to 13. The Kemper team outweighed the Columbians 12 pounds to the man.

The star work for Kemper was done by Stuart, a former Columbia High School boy. Kistler did good work for Columbia and out of ten attempted forward passes got away with eight. Evans was hurt during the second quarter but finished the game.

Garnett at left tackle played a splendid defensive game and was taken out only because of a dislocated hip in the last few minutes. Most of the scoring was done in the last half of the game. About twenty-five went from Columbia to see the game.

THEY TOLD STORIES OF OTHER DAYS HERE

Members and Former Members of Tiger Squad Make Speeches at First Banquet.

TO BE ANNUAL AFFAIR

Those Who Were Students Before 1900 Did Not Receive Official Letters.

Old "M" men, coaches, the athletic committee and M men who are in school now—fifty-two in all—attended the first annual "M" men's banquet at Virginia Grill Friday night. Never before have the old men been together so that they could talk over oldtimes and play over games of the time when athletics were young in the University.

The coming together of these men is the result of the plans of Prof. C. L. Brewer. It was an experiment, but now it will be an annual affair. They will meet in Columbia each year on the night before the big game of that season. Every two years it will be before the Kansas game.

After the talks Shannon Douglass of Kansas City suggested that they organize. Spencer C. Harris of Kansas City was elected president. Mr. Harris won his "M" on the football team. T. E. D. Hackney of Columbia was elected vice-president and "Ed" Klein of St. Louis, secretary.

The University did not officially issue M's before 1900. To the men who played before this the M certificates that Professor Brewer gave probably were the most welcome thing of the meeting.

Mr. Harris, president for this year, was graduated in 1899 and has never been back to Columbia since. He read of the meeting in a newspaper and said that he had to come after one of those certificates.

They Got the Negro.

D. L. Shawhan, who was on Missouri's first football team made the first talk. He told of spits with no padding that were used when he played the game.

"The University did not pay for them, but the team, professors and the town people went down in their pockets and outfitted the boys," he said.

Mr. Shawhan played against Nebraska the first time that the schools ever met, in 1893. He said that Nebraska was playing a big negro that year and that the negro was the whole team. George Evans was the Missouri quarterback. During the game Nebraska came near scoring. It was then that Mr. Shawhan got busy and called to Mr. Evans to "get that negro."

"We got the negro and we got the game," he said.

Mr. Evans was called on to tell how they got the negro. He said, "I don't know how we got him—we were too busy—but we got him somehow."

It was after this talk that Professor Brewer stopped the speakers long enough to say that he received almost twenty-five calls at the gymnasium Friday morning from people who wanted to know if Nebraska would play a negro this year.

B. F. Goslin, Missouri's left end in '90, '91 and '92 was the next man to speak. Mr. Goslin made the trip to St. Louis to play against Washington University. It was the first trip of a team from the University.

"We were burly Missouri farmer youths," he said. "We were sure of victory, for our signals had never been equaled. We had three sets altogether. 'Line up, men.' 'Line up, boys' and 'play ball, fellows.' For the first we went around right end, the second set took us around left end and the final one was an order to buck the center."

John P. Nicholson, Tiger track captain for this year, represented the M men now in school. "Nick" was given a great welcome when Professor Brewer introduced him as the only man who has every represented Missouri in a world meet. "Nick" said that he felt more at home in a track suit than speaking at a banquet. He said, "We are glad to have you old timers here for it makes us think that we have some one back of us and that we are fighting for you as well as the old columns."
